Arms Dealers Not In Great Rush for Necessary Licenses

Companies Must Give All Contractual Details of Sales; These Will Go to Congress

Duties Are Heavy

State Branch and Treasury Have Vast Amount of New Work

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—Issuance of licenses for the export of war materials to Britain and France has begun at the state department—but only in dribs and drabs.

Some officials who envisioned long lines of applicants waiting for the state department doors to open every morning this week have been disappointed.

One reason for the delay is the fact that the department had to prepare new application blanks. The new neutrality law requires more detailed information from the manufacturers and exporters of war materials than did the preceding act.

Companies which obtain licenses must submit to the state department all the contractual details of their sales. The national armaments control board must present these to Congress in semi-annual reports.

Nearly $80,000,000 in export licenses had to be cancelled when the arms embargo of the old act was imposed, but these will be reissued as fast as the applications come in and are approved. The cancelled licenses were almost entirely to Britain, France and Australia, and called principally for airplanes.

Licenses issued in the next month or so are expected to total several hundred million dollars.

More Overseas Duties
Administration of the new neutrality act is imposing more onerous duties on the state department and on the treasury, which supervises much of the "cash and carry" program.

About 160 organizations have registered with the state department for permission to collect funds for charitable distribution in the belligerent countries. Department officials are finding in some cases that they are being called on to act virtually as accountants to help the organizations straighten out their books.

The principal problem arising since the neutrality act was signed last Saturday has been the application of the United States Lines for transfer of eight ships to Panamanian registry so that they can continue in trans-Atlantic service. Secretary Hull and several members of Congress have urged that the transfer would be against the spirit of the neutrality law.

The maritime commission was preparing a report to President Roosevelt saying that the action would not involve the United States in any responsibility. In the meantime, it became known that the commission had approved since September 1 the transfer to the Panama flag of 15 Standard Oil tankers.

Ships are Old
A commission spokesman said that the Standard Oil ships were old ones which were being replaced with American tonnage, and he added that there was nothing unusual in the transfer, inasmuch as all tanker companies have large foreign flag fleets.

The commission, he said, is passing continually on applications for flag transfers.
Officials of the Standard Oil Company said that the transferred tankers would be operated by the Panama Transport Com-

Two Feared Dead

Winsted Hotel Fire Early Today Razes Landmark in Connecticut

Winsted, Conn., Nov. 9 (AP)—Two persons were believed to have lost their lives early today in a fire which burned the 100-year-old Beardsley Hotel to the ground.

State Police Lieutenant F. W. Brandt said Mrs. Elizabeth Murphy, 77, a widow, and George Royer, 55, both guests at the hotel, were unaccounted for.

One badly-burned body was recovered from the smoldering ruins, but it was impossible to determine immediately whether it was that of a man or woman.

Four of the 15 guests and five employees at the rambling, four-story frame structure were injured. Firemen rescued about 10 persons trapped on a third-story balcony while flames licked about the balustrades.

Hubby Hurries

In response to a telephone plea from his wealthy wife, Anne Gould Elsbury, (above) Herman E. Elsbury, 28-year-old cowboy, flew from Cody, Wyo., to New York after his wife had filed suit for divorce charging cruelty. Friends said Mrs. Elsbury suffered a broken arm in a fall from a horse.

Aged High Falls Spinster Is Found Dead in Old Canal

Miss Permillia Barringer, 88, of High Falls, who lived with a relative in a house on a slight elevation near one of the old Delaware & Hudson canal locks, south of the village, was found dead this morning at the bottom of the lock.

Neighbors believed the aged woman, who had been missing from her home since Tuesday evening, somehow lost her way in the darkness and fell into the deserted canal lock, an estimated distance of 15 feet. Her body, heavily clothed, was discovered in the bottom of the lock between 7 and 8 o'clock this morning by Lillian Hendricks, a neighbor.

Corner Howard B. Humiston, of Kerhonkson, following an investigation soon after the body was found, issued a verdict of accidental death due to injuries received in a fall. Death was caused.

Chemical Plant Razed by Blast

Lodi Factory Scene of Six Explosions; None Hurt

Lodi, N. J., Nov. 9 (AP)—A series of six explosions followed by fire destroyed the Lodi chemical plant today, 15 minutes before its 10 employees were to report for work. No one was hurt.

The plant, located on route 2 about a mile from the business section of this borough, melts down old film to recover silver nitrate.

Fire Chief Harry Jones refused to allow firemen from Lodi and nearby South Hackensack to approach the building until he was satisfied there would be no further explosions.

Jones quoted George Rockland of Hackensack, the plant watchman, as saying the first explosion occurred at 7:45 a. m. and others followed at five minute intervals. Silver nitrate tanks at the side of the building exploded, Jones said, blowing out the front wall of the one-story building.

The watchman was quoted by Jones as saying he saw smoke in the "melting room," then pulled main switches to cut off electricity and fled from the building to send a fire alarm. Rockland said he was just clear of the building when the first tank exploded.

Balls of fire shot 500 feet in the air followed by black smoke. Route 2 was jammed by spectators, holding up traffic.
Jones said cause of the explosions and the amount of damage were not determined immediately.

Gandhi's Demands For Hindu Liberty Increase Tension

Wizened Nationalist Chief Replies to British That Policy of Unity Is Not Sufficient

Premier Doubtful

Chamberlain Has Doubts Germany Will Accept Hague Offer

Bombay, Nov. 9 (AP)—A strongly worded demand for India's political freedom, delivered by Mohandas K. Gandhi, added new fuel today to the fire of Indian unrest which Britain has been trying to subdue pending the end of the European war.

Rejecting the British contention that India must achieve unity before acquiring dominion status, the wizened, 70-year-old Hindu nationalist leader declared at Wardha that only through "freedom from bondage" can his people solve their internal problems.

"The utterance brought no immediate reply from the British viceroy, Lord Linlithgow, who had announced Sunday that he would continue his efforts to reconcile differences between Gandhi's all-India congress party, the Moslem League and the Indian princes.

Linlithgow has been seeking to reform Indian governments which resigned in six provinces in protest against Britain's present refusal to consider demands for dominion status.

In a long series of exchanges with the tall, debonair British viceroy, Gandhi has maintained that protection of minorities should be left to an Indian constitutional convention.

The 97-pound spiritual and political leader of the Hindus, graduate of the University of London and one-time lawyer, has been leading the fight for Indian home rule for more than 20 years.

Doubts Satisfaction
Prime Minister Chamberlain expressed doubt that Germany would make "a satisfactory response" to the mediation offer of Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands and King Leopold of the Belgians.

Britain will not lay down arms "until we are assured Europe has been freed from the threats which have so long paralyzed the life of her peoples," Chamberlain said, adding that Britain would reply to the mediation offer after consulting with her dominions and allies.

The French war ministry reported increased activity on the western front, especially between the Moselle and Saar rivers where there were "sharp encounters."

The French also reported more German troop concentrations on the Netherlands frontier.

Reynaud's Pledge
Finance Minister Paul Reynaud of France declared today that if American neutrality is ever violated "it will not be by any act of France or her allies."

"Your country may be called to play a great role in the work of reconstruction," he said in a speech to the American Club of Paris, following "what we want and are determined to get—total peace."

Thanking Americans for their "sympathy and understanding," Reynaud said "let's not forget the bitter lessons of the last war. Let's not forget the unprecedented economic depression it brought about."

"If during the present war we should commit the old blunder of letting our ships come over from the United States full of goods and go back empty we should be sowing the seeds of another and perhaps more terrible post-war crisis."

The finance minister declared the just economic requirements of all peoples must be taken into account when peace is finally achieved.

"I firmly believe that when peace comes... reconstruction will take place much faster than many people think," Reynaud declared. "Think what it would mean for the well being and health of all peoples if a gigantic mass of war credits could be devoted to productive ends out of which would come social reconciliation and international harmony."

Garner and Wheeler Friends Ask Formal Announcement

Legislative Fight Due on Betting Differences Arise on Ways of Effectuating Measure

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 9 (AP)—A 1940 legislative "battle" appeared certain today over restrictions already proposed in enacting the new constitutional amendment legalizing pari-mutuel betting at New York's horse race tracks.

Differences developing overnight found one group of lawmakers determined to effectuate the amendment with legislation which would assure the state a $10,000,000 annual revenue its sponsors claimed would come from the betting machines.

Such a step, which opponents claimed would necessitate construction of additional tracks and require enlargement of others to accommodate more persons, ran counter to plans of some Republican legislators aiming to "circumvent the evils" created by pari-mutuel machines in other states.

Democratic Senate Minority leader John J. Dunnigan, author of the pari-mutuel amendment, asserted he had a plan for implementing the measure which would bring the state $10,000,000 to be used for relief funds and other governmental expenditures.

The minority leader's proposal to make installation of the machines mandatory at every track met no opposition from a Republican group of legislators but they insisted, however, that there should be a limit to the number of tracks in the state.

Out of Danger

Panama, Panama, Nov. 9 (AP)—President Juan Demostenes Arias, who suffered a heart attack last night, was reported today to be out of danger. Earlier word from Santo Tomas Hospital said his condition was serious.

U. S. Estimates Call for Equipment For Army of Million; Figures Secret

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—War department estimates being studied by President Roosevelt were reported today to call for equipment of an army of a million men.

If Mr. Roosevelt approves, congress may be asked at the January session to appropriate $3,000,000,000 or more for national defense, nearly double the record sum voted this year for the army and navy.

The army high command wants immediately available, authorized military quarters, heard, an "initial protective force" of 600,000 regulars and national guardsmen, full war equipment to expand the force to 730,000 or more in an emergency, and the essential arms for the remainder of the million.

Detailed cost figures are confidential, but it is understood that the proposal contemplates total appropriations for the war department exceeding $1,700,000,000.

Congress Won't Get Bid to Raise Limit

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—Secretary Morgenthau said today that neither President Roosevelt nor he would ask congress to lift the federal debt limit.

The chief executive and treasury head had been expected to recommend raising the debt ceiling from $45,000,000,000 to probably $50,000,000,000 in order to clear the way for continued federal deficit spending.

"Congress makes the appropriations," Morgenthau said. "I am just the paymaster. If we get up to the debt limit, I won't draw checks for a penny more."

Treasury to Mail Six Billion Gold by Registered Route

Washington, Nov. 9 (AP)—Inexperienced postmen need not apply, but the Treasury is getting ready to mail five or six billion dollars worth of gold.

As soon as Congress authorizes the postage—about $1,000,000—the Treasury wants to shift part of its huge gold hoards from New York and Philadelphia to the subterranean vaults built for the purpose at Fort Knox, Ky.

Fort Knox already contains $5,523,000,000 worth of the metal, but none has been added for a couple of years, while the Treasury stocks outside of Fort Knox have grown to exceed $11,600,000,000. Shifting some of the gold should relieve congestion in outside vaults and at the same time increase its safety.

Getting the metal to Fort Knox, officials explained, wouldn't be much different than mailing a wristwatch to your sweetheart for Christmas. No one is quite sure how the postoffice would pay the insurance if the whole $5,000,000,000 got lost, but the treasury sends gold by registered mail just the same.

The extra postage compensates the post office for guarding the gold with hundreds of inspectors and soldiers.

There was an outside chance that some of the gold piled up in New York and Philadelphia might be shipped abroad, the way it came in, but the war postponed indefinitely the day when foreigners will want to reclaim the wealth they sent here for safekeeping. About $3,000,000,000 in gold was sent here in the last 12 months.

At Fort Knox, safekeeping is almost a cinch. The depository is in the middle of the army post. Its vaults are about 60 feet underground, protected from would-be tunnelers by 10 feet of reinforced concrete. The building is guaranteed bombproof, and any one getting inside would still have to budge a 20-ton door to get in to the vaults.

Plea for Help

Fritz Kuhn Trial Opens as Justice Denies 2 Motions

Bundsfuehrer Is Charged With $5,641 Theft; Is Being Tried on 10 of 12 Counts

New York, Nov. 9 (AP)—Fritz Kuhn, leader of the German-American Bund, went on trial today charged with the theft of $5,641 in Bund funds, after Judge James G. Wallace denied defense motions for postponement and a change of venue.

Kuhn, who maintained he could not get a fair trial in New York, is being tried on 10 counts of a 12-count indictment.

Dressed in a conservative dark suit, the Bund leader arrived in the court room accompanied by his lawyers and by Gustav Elmer, general organizer for the Bund. Elmer was ordered to leave, since no spectators were to be permitted until a jury was chosen.

Obtains Order
Peter L. F. Sabbatino, Kuhn's lawyer, obtained an order yesterday requiring Assistant District Attorney Herman J. McCarthy to show cause why a previous motion for postponement denied by Judge Wallace, should not be reargued.

The judge summarily denied the new application and ordered the trial to proceed.

The defense attorneys, in obtaining the order, presented an affidavit in which Kuhn said, "The President of the United States has shown hostility toward Germany in the present European conflict," and that "it is common knowledge that the present sympathies in this community preponderate in favor of the so-called allies and against Germany."

The "Deutscher Weckruf Und Beobachter," Bund organ, had contended that District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, by "prosecuting Fritz Kuhn and Americans of German blood," sought to "obtain the republican nomination for president," but Dewey indicated he would not participate in the prosecution.

Attaches of the district attorney's office said Kuhn's trial would be "treated as a routine matter," and pointed out Dewey never personally tries cases which he regards as "routine."

Indicted last May, Kuhn has been at liberty in $50,000 cash bail. Born in Munich, he served with the German army in the first world war and claims to have aided German Chancellor Adolf Hitler in the unsuccessful beer hall putsch of 1923, whose anniversary was celebrated yesterday.

Kuhn took control of the Friends of New Germany in 1935. The organization changed its name to the German-American Bund.

Hitler Sees First Photos of Munich Beer Hall Bombing

None of High Party Bosses Among Those Reported to Have Died; British and Jews Blamed

Eight Lose Lives

Nazis of Lesser Degree and One Woman Are Those Said to Have Died

By Melvin K. Whiteleather
Berlin, Nov. 9 (AP)—Adolf Hitler, safe behind the walls of his new chancellery in Berlin, today viewed photographs of the first officially disclosed serious attempt to kill him since he assumed power in 1933.

The original reward of 500,000 marks ($200,000) for information leading to seizure of the guilty was increased today to 600,000 marks ($240,000) by an anonymous additional offer of 100,000 marks ($40,000).

None of the high Nazi officials who accompanied Hitler to Munich for the annual celebration were reported among the killed or injured.

Meanwhile the Reich's tremendous police power combed the nation for perpetrators of last night's explosion in the Munich buergerbrau cellar which would have buried the fuhrer under nine feet of debris had he not left the "beer hall" putsch anniversary observance earlier than customary.

The blast in the buergerbrau hall, a shrine of Nazidom, came a few minutes after Hitler had left en train for Berlin and killed eight of his veteran followers and wounded more than 60, some gravely.

The British secret service and Jews were openly charged with an attempt on the fuhrer's life, but officials said so far there was no trace of persons directly responsible for what "must have been a long and carefully planned attempt."

Police Are Mobilized
Berlin, Nov. 9 (AP)—Germany mobilized all the might of her police today in a search for assassins—believed by Nazis to be British secret service agents and Jews—blamed for an explosion showered down from which only chance spared Adolf Hitler.

A few minutes after the fuhrer—earlier than had been expected—left a 16th anniversary celebration of the first Nazi putsch last night in Munich's Buergerbrau hall, shrine of Nazidom, a terrific explosion showered down its ceiling.

Eight of his followers were killed and more than 60 of the old Nazi fighters were hurt, some gravely. None of the high Nazi officials who accompanied Hitler to the traditional party celebration, however, were reported among the killed or injured.

A death list announced by the propaganda ministry disclosed that one of the eight dead was a woman. She was believed to be Frau Maria Henle, cashier of the beer cellar, but was not definitely identified.

Others were Frank Lutz, Wilhelm Kaiser, a radio announcer named Weber, Leonard Reindl, Emil Kasberger, Eugen Schacht and one man still unidentified.

Eight Die Instantly

The eight dead were said to have been killed instantly. With the fuhrer were Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, Deputy Party Leader Rudolf Hess, Labor Leader Robert Ley, Interior Minister Wilhelm Frick, Labor Service Leader Konstantin Hierl, Alfred Rosenberg, head of

LINDY AND CANADA

Roundaboutly from London, through the Canadian press, comes the report that Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh is planning a speaking tour in Canada. The British don't like the idea. It is widely held over there that he has already said more than is wise, and that his latest radio speech was definitely "anti-British" if not "pro-Nazi."

The idea of such a lecture tour comes as a surprise to the ordinary American, who is at once inclined to doubt that the rumor has much basis in fact. Such a venture seems even more out of Lindy's line than his two radio speeches. It is a little hard, too, to see how any promoter could hope to get him many engagements in Canada or to have much favorable publicity.

The average American does not think Colonel Lindbergh's sympathies lie with Germany or against England and Canada. Most of us wish he'd analyze his speeches more carefully before he makes them and consult persons whose judgment of the effect of words and whose knowledge of international relations are deeper than his. However, the general American reaction against his rather sharp references to Canada was vigorous enough to show that opinion in the United States is friendly toward our northern neighbor and wholly respectful of Canada's rights and independence.

NOCTURNAL CONFUSION

It's a wild night on the short waves now. Anyone who can stand it, and has been overlooking this source of alien excitement, may be interested in an occasional excursion on the foreign wave band.

It is heartening or disheartening, according to your point of view, to hear the foreigners abusing and exposing each other. And it is flattering to have them appeal to Americans as arbiters of their quarrels. So dial in, mates, if you have a steady hand and a reasonably calm soul, and have read the more accurate news printed in your daily paper.

You will hear the Germans and the British eloquently "spilling the dirt" on each other. You will hear lies from many capitals that would shame Ananias. You will have your faith in the Old World considerably weakened after you have felt around and got the low-down on European government generally. But you will get a pretty good course of training in sifting fact from propaganda, truth from falsehood. You will learn something even from the rival stations that demonstrate the righteousness of their own cause by blanketing and curdling each other's news broadcasts.

PROFITABLE INSANITY

The "Topics of the Times" writer in the New York Times makes an interesting suggestion about Hollywood. The "broad streak of lunacy in the movie business," he says, may be due to the California climate. Or on the other hand, the climate may be due to the movies—he isn't quite sure. Anyway, it's a great combination.

"Everybody laughs at Hollywood as well as with Hollywood, but that lunatic touch is part of the screen's charm and success story. It would be sad for everybody concerned if the film industry should move away from California and become perfectly sane and find that it had lost its magic spell over practically the whole human race."

There is an obvious application to Mayor LaGuardia's proposal to move the film industry to New York. The latter city has its own special field and charm, anyway, and there is no evident advantage in combining the two.

CHEMICAL FIRE-FIGHTING

Fires and fire-fighting grow more complicated. The worst things that firemen have to contend with are chemical fires, which must often be fought with other chemicals, and which take a good deal of chemical knowledge to handle.

One of the most unusual experiences along this line lately was a "steel shavings" fire in the refuse dump of a steel plant at Lorain, Ohio. It might not be literally true to say that the metal shavings burned, but 13,000 tons of them mixed with oil and sawdust certainly made one of the most stubborn blazes the fire department had ever contended with. Water seemed to do no good. They finally extinguished the fire by drowning it with seven tons of carbon dioxide, sprayed from fog nozzles.

Quite a change from the old water bucket brigade system.

BRITISH ASTROLOGY PAUSES

The publishers of the British Journal of Astrology have announced temporary suspension of that magazine "owing to the uncertainty of the immediate future." The stars may not be falling down on their job, but the other factors which enter into the situation are more confused and complex than they have been for many years.

It would be interesting to know whether more people, or fewer, turn to astrology for advice and comfort during such times as these. And what of Adolf Hitler? Has he had time to study the stars and cast his own and Germany's horoscopes since the first of September?

Sure, we're coming into Utopia. At the rate pensions are spreading, soon nobody will have to work except the people who distribute the pension money.

Now if private citizens could only establish a 300-yard line, within which bill collectors wouldn't be allowed to intrude, this would be a safer world for everybody.

What times! Even the animals are getting out of hand. Four deer invaded the heart of Rochester, N. Y., the other day, and broke into a beauty parlor.

Congressmen understand, better than senators do, that the public is more interested in how they vote than in what they say.

SCARS, MOLES, OTHER GROWTHS

I have spoken before of the surgeon who had three patients report to him in one week with a lump in the breast, all three of whom believed they had cancer. One had gone on a European trip with her family holding her secret (cancer with death follows) within her heart rather than spoil the plans of her family. Another had discovered the lump when she was some thousands of miles from home and traveled all that distance in despair rather than consult a physician in the city so far from home. . . .

And the story of the third woman had cancer yet all endured weeks and months of agony of mind before consulting a physician.

Everyone past forty with a persistent lump or a slow or non-healing sore should consult a physician. If it is not a cancer, relief of mind is obtained. If it is cancer, the chances of removing the cancer by surgery, X-ray or radium are excellent. Neglected, death will follow.

Most cancers grow rapidly. When a mole, lump, scar, or other growth has been present for months or even years, it is only natural that it is not considered cancerous. But if changes begin to take place in these common or innocent growths, then the fact that they may develop into cancer should not be forgotten.

Dr. H. Montgomery, Rochester, Minn., in Archives of Dermatology and Syphilology, shows that in 20 per cent or more of all the conditions mentioned above—scars, moles, lumps, and other growths—skin cancer develops. In some of these lumps, moles, and scars, cancerous growth and innocent growth are going on at the same time.

While the fact that the great majority of these common skin conditions never develop into cancer is reassuring, nevertheless the fact that some of them are forerunners of skin cancer must be remembered.

Don't disturb these moles, scars, or growths in any way but make it a point about once a month to examine them carefully to see if any changes are taking place in them.

Fortunately, these skin conditions, even if they turn into cancer, are readily cured by surgery, X-ray and radium.

Cancer: Its Symptoms and Treatment

Send today for Dr. Barton's latest booklet entitled "Cancer: Its Symptoms and Treatment," No. 110. The two facts—that the death rate from cancer is increasing and that cancer is curable if found early—make this booklet of tremendous interest to all of us. Do not delay. Send your request to The Bell Library, Post Office Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y., enclosing ten cents to cover cost of service and handling and mention the Kingston Daily Freeman.

Knoxville, Tenn. (AP)—Tennesseans like ballads whether they are 80 years old or modern compositions such as "We Got Franklin D. Roosevelt Back Again," the University of Tennessee has found. Miss Ruby Duncan of Sale Creek, working on a master's degree, collected ballads, old and new, from the natives throughout the state and found some of them dated back to the 12th century. Such songs as "The Farmer's Cursed Wife" and "Bonny Barbara Allen," known as "Child ballads," were among the oldest. The more modern included a salute to President Roosevelt and the story of Floyd Collins, who was trapped in a cave some years ago. "When we think of the great antiquity of the Child ballads," said Miss Duncan, "it is true that in comparison with the older songs and ballads we are prone to give adverse criticism to our own contribution, but it may be that America is developing a wealth of folk songs that in the future will bear favorable comparison with the best that has been produced by any country in the past."

Basic Question About Re-Registration of Ships Is How Transfer Affects United States

By DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright, 1939)
Washington, Nov. 9.—If the premise be accepted that sinking of a ship owned by American citizens may drag the United States into war, would this also be true of a ship leased to a foreign company?

This is the basic question involved in the complications that have arisen over the plan of American shipowners to transfer to a Panama corporation the title to their ships. The Gallup poll's latest survey shows that the American people overwhelmingly believe that sinking of ships—the cause of the last war—should not be considered a reason for entry into the present European war.

Although Congress served notice by the passage of the neutrality law last week that it wanted to avoid any issue with Germany over the sinking of American vessels or cargoes, there are some members of Congress who feel that citizens of the United States should deny themselves also the opportunity of leasing their vessels for foreign use, which is, in effect, what transfer of "registry" really means.

The trouble, of course, is that emotion about the possibility of a quarrel over sinking American ships, even if transferred to foreign corporations, is so intense that the practical side of the matter has been almost entirely ignored. To the shipowners who face losses of routes and losses of income due to the new law, and who in advance do not ask for the protection of the American government at all and wish to sail the seas at their own risk, the question is one of acute importance. As for the seamen who cannot be employed in European trade anyway, because it is a violation of law to man American ships for contact with the belligerent countries, the new statute throws them out of employment.

For new routes are available for the American ships. The theory that all the vessels plying to Europe could engage in the South American traffic is excellent on paper, but there are already in operation shipping lines in a sharply competitive business. Other neutral vessels and British and French merchant ships as well as Italian liners are not going to avoid South America just to please American shipping lines which have been virtually driven off the North Atlantic by war hysteria.

Nobody here is advocating the granting of subsidies or wages to the seamen who have lost their jobs, or will lose them when American ships are tied up. As long as the cry was "keep us out of war" and the argument was accepted as valid that to trade with European countries meant war, no thought was given to the economic effects of the change. The people who cried for absolute embargo on shipping with Europe did not use anything themselves, while the transaction, but the investors in the regular shipping companies will lose unless Congress reimburses them or accepts without objection next January the plans for transferring registry to foreign countries.

The contention is being made that to transfer to a foreign flag is a subterfuge. Certainly it is a subterfuge, but is it no different than the provision in the law which requires payment in cash for arms and airplanes that are exported to Europe and doesn't require cash or transfer of title for cargoes shipped across the Canadian boundary or to ports in the South Atlantic.

There will come a time when the present neutrality law will be condemned as a hedge-podge drawn up in panic to meet a war hysteria that could have as readily been satisfied by a flat declaration in advance that all ships and citizens travel at their own risk and that the government of the United States will not use its diplomatic or military powers in behalf of such ships, cargoes or citizens. The law as it stands today contains a major subterfuge and the same point while Americans are forbidden to overseas, the preamble sets forth that America does not relinquish her rights under international law. Congress wrote other subterfuges in the law, and now that private citizens who are faced with bankruptcy are trying to save their business by transferring to foreign registry, there are plenty of persons here who want to see legitimate operations, clearly permissible under the law, stopped by some sort of quasi-legal or moral pressure. Even Secretary Hull has been persuaded to ignore the legal view of the complication and to accept the theory that it is morally wrong for American ships to transfer registry. But it's really morally wrong in the view of some people to sail the seas at all, or to carry anything to anybody who may carry it to the war zone. It never was morally wrong before in American history to run a blockade at one's own risk, and certainly, if it's good international law for a belligerent vessel to fly a neutral flag in the midst of a voyage, as the Bremen did in escaping the British blockade, it would seem within international law for an American company formally to transfer its vessels to the flag of another country and announce its openly to the world before any voyages begin.

Dr. Farrand Dies In New York City

DR. LIVINGSTON FARRAND
New York, Nov. 9 (AP)—Dr. Livingston Farrand, 72, Cornell University's president-emeritus and former University of Colorado president, is dead.

Admitted to New York Hospital November 2, he died of pneumonia last night. In the last few years, he had devoted much of his time to the advocacy of health insurance for the masses and was a leader in the fight against tuberculosis.

He was president of the University of Colorado from 1914 until 1919 and became Cornell's fourth president in 1921. He retired in June, 1937, when trustees named him Cornell's first president-emeritus.

Dr. Edmund Ezra Day, who succeeded Dr. Farrand as Cornell president, said in a formal statement, "his administration of the university was distinguished at all times by his ready and sympathetic understanding, a just and penetrating fair-mindedness, a courteous and a kindly treatment of contending interests which endeared him to all with whom he came in contact. His spirit permeated the life of the university. In his death, Cornell has lost one of its most notable and beloved leaders."

Scientist Explains Effect Of Freezing on Cancer

Embryonic cells thrive best at temperature from 101 degrees to 103 degrees, with 95 degrees as a critical temperature for their vitality, while any temperature below 90 degrees will stop their activity.

These laboratory findings, with the possibility of amazing application of these principles to the treatment of carcinoma, which is composed of cells, has been reported by Dr. Lawrence W. Smith, professor of pathology, Temple University, Philadelphia.

"The laboratory results in this field of research are, thus far, not conclusive enough to warrant any statement that nearly freezing, or 'hibernating,' cancer will effect permanent cure," Dr. Smith said.

"We have discovered nothing new in these experiments, except to establish certain limits of temperature outside of which—either above or below—embryonic and carcinoma cells cease their activity. We have found that we can conduct these experiments with safety on patients."

"It has been known for many years that continued cold some degrees below normal body temperature slows up all physiological activity. We have merely applied the known fact to the embryonic cells of chicks, and, later, to cancer in human beings, for the purpose, first of determining what are the maximum and minimum temperature limits for the vitality of these cells, and, second, to find out as nearly as possible to what extent hibernating treatment may be applied without danger to the human body."

"While we have secured, thus far, some very interesting and rather promising results, it would be a great mistake to jump to the conclusion that we have discovered any new and effective treatment of cancer. We do not know, as yet, whether a tumor checked in its growth and malignancy by the 'freezing' process may some time later resume its activity."

Noteworthy Haircut

While this haircut does not rank in historical importance with that of DeLilah gave Samson, it is nevertheless noteworthy because it brought two people into police court, cost them $25 each. Vernon Swan left a Milwaukee barber shop proud of the artistic job that had been done on his hair, wended to a near-by tavern to submit the trim to critical inspection of his friends. Oscar Meyer took full cognizance of the haircut, deliberated thoughtfully, gave this verdict: "Lousy." There was bedlam in the barroom which ended with both men in court and Swan with three artistic stitches embroidered in his newly shorn scalp.

To those who imagine that the idea of air conditioning is new, it will be a surprise to learn that an effective system was in use 130 years ago. The Black Emperor, Henri Christophe, cooled the rooms of his palace at Sans Souci back in 1808.

'HERO' SENT TO REFORMATORY

Stanton Cheesman, 17, (above) acclaimed a hero after rescuing five children from their burning home at Clayton, N. J., later was sentenced to an indefinite reformatory term on a charge he set the fire. Cheesman is shown on the day of the fire, showing how he rescued Ellen Gorman, 2, one of the children.

Marines to Have Two Recruiting Officers in City

The United States Marine Corps recruiting party will visit Kingston November 14 and 15, it was announced today.

The visit will be made in compliance with a nation-wide drive to boost the enrollment of the nation's marine corps from the previously authorized strength of 19,000 to 25,000 men.

President Roosevelt's recent declaration of a limited emergency spurred the drive for a larger marine corps, and applicants are able to enlist without delay at the present time.

Sergeants Maxwell P. Dickerson and Joseph P. Gale of the Marine Corps will be stationed in the vicinity of the Post Office on those days, and will furnish information regarding the marine Corps to applicants.

Literature setting forth enlistment requirements, conditions of service and complete information regarding the Marine Corps will be available.

Applicants must be between 18 and 30 years of age. If under 21 they must have consent of parents or legal guardian. They must be free from dependency claims on the part of parents or other relatives, and clear of any police record. They must be able to pass the required physical examination. Enlistment is for four years.

Banquet Planned By Business Men

The successful drive for an increased membership in the Central Business Men's Association now under way will be climaxed with the annual banquet next Tuesday evening at the Hotel Eichler, which will bring the drive to a close.

President Harry B. Walker of the association said today that the drive was meeting with great success, and it was expected that it would result in a largely increased membership.

Among the invited guests who will attend the banquet next Tuesday are Mayor Heiselman, Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, Chief of Police J. Allan Wood, and Corporation Counsel John M. Cashin.

New England Gourmets

Stage 'Chowder' Battle

New Englanders have won a hard-fought battle over whether tomatoes properly deserve a place in clam chowder.

The decision of gourmets was that tomatoes should be outlawed from the succulent dish.

Now, they have ruled that milk has no place in fish chowder and that the correct liquid is Madeira wine. They based this on a recipe found in an early cook book.

Andrew S. Seiler, Boston caterer, found the recipe in the "Cook's Own Book," published by Monroe & Francis in 1832.

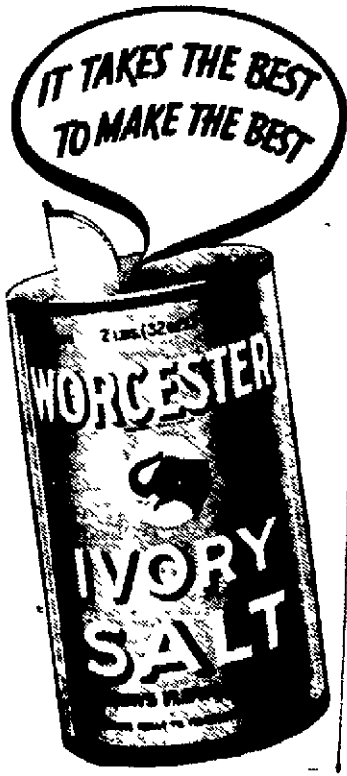

"This receipt (not recipe) is according to the most approved method practiced by fishing parties in Boston harbor," read a preface. It continued:

"Chowder—Lay some slices cut from the fat part of the bellypiece of pork in a deep stewpan, mix sliced onions with a variety of sweet herbs and lay them on the pork. Bone and cut a fresh cod into thin slices, and place them on the pork; then put a layer of pork, on that a layer of biscuit; then alternately the other materials until the pan is nearly full, season with pepper and salt, put in about a pint and a half of water, lay a paste over the whole, cover the stewpan very close, and let it stand, with fire above as well as below, for hours.

"Then skim it well, and put it in a dish, pour a glass of Madeira made hot over it, also some Jamaica pepper, stewed mushrooms, truffles and oysters; brown the paste slightly and lay it over the whole."

German Speed Camera

Capable of taking 80,000 pictures a second, an all-electric slow-motion camera has been developed in Germany. Motion pictures produced were shown before invited guests in Berlin, not long before the outbreak of the war. Among the pictures shown was the movement of warm air circulating in a heated room, the discharge of electric sparks over insulators and flying bullets hitting suspended steel wires. Known technically as a stroboscope, the camera is designed primarily for technical and scientific research.

HITLER ESCAPES DEATH AS EXPLOSION WRECKS BEER HALL

This was the scene a year ago in the Munich beer cellar which was wrecked by a death-dealing explosion only a short time after Adolf Hitler had concluded his 1939 pilgrimage to it. The cellar was the scene of his 1923 putsch. Left to right, Ullrich Graf, who was credited with "protecting" Hitler in 1923; Hitler, seated beside bottle of soda water, and Rudolf Hess, one of Hitler's principal aides.

BEER CELLAR BLAST FOLLOWS HITLER SPEECH

Adolf Hitler had just departed after delivering his 1939 pilgrimage speech in the Munich beer cellar (above) when it was wrecked by a terrific explosion which killed six persons outright and injured many others. Hitler is shown two years ago as he delivered an earlier address to party members at the same spot.

Assassination Attempts

(By The Associated Press)
Almost from the start of Adolf Hitler's rise to power, there have been repeated but unverified reports of attempts on his life. His first escape from violent harm during his political career came in 1923, sixteen years ago today, when troops broke up the Nazi Putsch from the beer cellar wrecked by last night's explosion. Sixteen of Hitler's comrades were slain.

Early in his regime, assassination attempts were reported frequently, but in recent years few have come to light. The reports include:
March 7, 1933—Two waiters arrested in Munich on charge of plotting to kill Hitler, named chancellor less than two months previously.
March 13, 1933—Count Arco-Valley placed under "protective arrest" when police said he announced intention of killing Hitler.
March 21, 1933—Persons living near scene of Reichstag Assembly ordered not to leave their homes during opening ceremonies, as precaution for safety of Hitler and President Paul von Hindenburg, bouquets forbidden.
April 13, 1933—Munich police say assassination plot thwarted by arrest of Hindu Communist at border.

April 17, 1933—Paul Orlowsky, medical student in Nazi uniform, arrested in Berchtesgaden by police who said he had loaded pistol, ammunition and narcotics. Police later released him, saying he merely desired to speak to Hitler on a petition.
June 20, 1933—Rumor circulated and denied that Hitler was missed by rifleman as he attended funeral of Frau Karin Goering at Eberswalde; similar rumor that Hitler was shot at while returning from visit to President von Hindenburg at Neudeck.

ENGLISH POUNDS—Considerable blackout area is cast by the shadow of Leonard Crum who's known at a British training depot as "Two-Ton Tony," presumably after Galento, the American fighter and boastful barkeep.

CAMERA 'SHOT' THESE—Breathes there a hunter who doesn't thrill to the sight of Mallards heading south—or toward a roasting pan? These beauties were seen flying gracefully over Lake Blanche at Battle Lake, Minn.

DUCKS HAD BETTER DUCK—This "Big Bertha" spelling doom to a duck winging over Minnesota swamps is a barrel-over-barrel shotgun given a freak "camera angle" treatment.

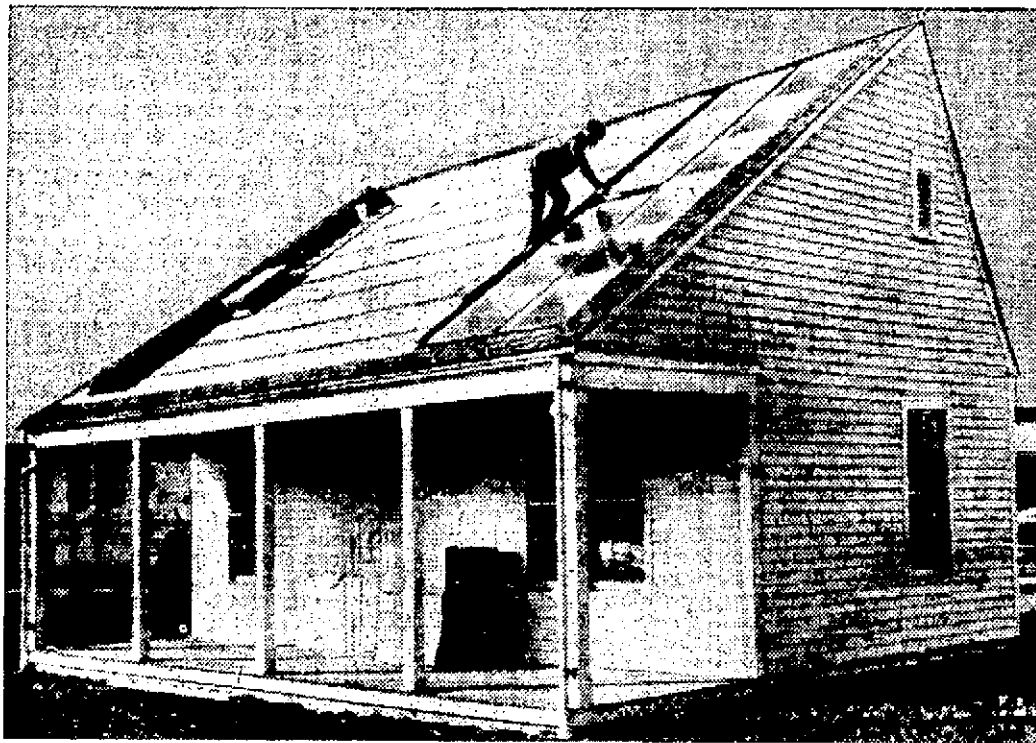

WILLING WORKER—It's easy to see that hunting is as much fun for Nygra, Labrador retriever, as it is for her master, Dave Siverson. They got this one at Lake Blanche, Minn. Minnesota's bag limit is 10 ducks per hunter per day.

DOT'N DASH—In this dashing Somali leopard jacket shown in New York, Deim-Bacher has fitted the front and flared the back downward. The sleeves are extra wide and the neckline, collarless. Her matching sailor is edged with felt.

GOOD LISTENER—For the first time the former Evelyn Rothwell, an oboe player, watched her husband, John Barbirolli (above), conduct the N. Y. Philharmonic symphony recently. They married in London in July, soon after his divorce.

WHEN SOL PAYS THE COAL BILL—Homes heated by the sun are the dream of Massachusetts Institute of Technology scientists who built this experimental house at Cambridge, Mass. Solar radiation, collected in glass heat traps on the roof and stored in an insulated basement for possibly six months at a time, will be used for winter heat, summer air-conditioning.

NO-PEEKING 'PEEPERS'—These extension "peepers" designed by Thomas Blue (above) of Charlottesville, Va., are intended to keep jittery horses quiet at the barrier. The jockey jerks them off when the race begins.

19 LIVES—Figuring her cats' lives at nine each, Peggo Lippe, Philadelphia painter, was safeguarding 19 lives when she fled from France because of war. She had been painting in Europe.

'DOG' IN TOGGERY—Ah's and oh's arose from the sidewalk crowds when social Mrs. Janet Olcott Cavanagh arrived with her husband for New York's opening night of the National Horse Show, which has come to mean a lavish display of society's rich furs, beautiful gowns and glittering jewels. She wore white fox fur mittens to match her fur parka jacket.

Farmers Will See Plowing Methods In Demonstration

The vegetable committee of the Ulster County Farm Bureau has made arrangements to hold a county-wide plowing demonstration at the farm of John Saxe, Hurley, on Friday. The demonstration will be an all-day affair, beginning at 9:30 a. m. and continuing until 4:30 in the afternoon.

George Crowther, of the New York State College of Agriculture, will be present to demonstrate the proper method of making plow adjustments so that the greatest possible plowing efficiency can be obtained. These adjustments will be explained at 9:30 a. m. and again at 1:30 p. m.

Farm equipment dealers in the county are supplying tractors and plows for the demonstration. It is expected that about eight different tractors and plows will be on hand to take part, some of them being new models to be supplied farmers during the coming season.

In sponsoring this demonstration the vegetable committee wishes to stress the value of a good job of plowing in the control of the European corn borer which caused such serious injury to sweet corn during the past season. Except for recently developed spraying methods, the best known method of control of the corn borer is plow under or otherwise destroy all corn refuse. This operation should preferably be done in the fall of the year when winter weather can help destroy the borers which have been dislodged from their normal winter quarters.

Those wishing to attend the demonstration will find the road well marked with posters, beginning at the village of Hurley. The field is located about 1½ miles southwest of Hurley on the road to Lomontville.

by a deep scalp wound and fracture of the skull.

The path leading to the little house where the aged woman lived passes close to the first canal lock south of the village. This path had been used regularly in gaining access to the house, but it is believed the aged woman, who had been last seen in the village early Tuesday evening, became confused in the darkness, bearing to her left instead of right and falling into the opening of the lock.

Miss Barringer lived with Alva Schoonmaker, a relative. He was assisted by neighbors in searching for the aged woman after she failed to return home.

The sheriff's office was notified and Sheriff Molyneux, with Troopers Metzger and Reilly and Coroner H. B. Humiston made the investigation. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Unloads Cargo

Bergen, Norway, Nov. 9 (AP)—The United States freighter, City of Flint, which was captured as a war prize by Germany, and then released by Norway, started to unload her cargo today in preparation for returning directly to America. Captain Joseph Gainard said the vessel would carry only ballast on the return voyage. Thus she would travel from one neutral port to another without cargo in an attempt to avoid entanglement with warships of the belligerents on the lookout for contraband. The City of Flint was bound for England when the German pocket battleship Deutschland seized her October 9 and put a German prize crew aboard.

Prosecution Completes Its Testimony in Martin's Case

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 9 (AP)—The prosecution completed testimony today in the six-week-old State Senate hearing of "professional and judicial misconduct" charges for removal of Kings County Judge George W. Martin.

The 63-year-old defendant, ill of diabetes, lay in a New York city hospital as the Senate heard the last of prosecution testimony on which it will decide whether Martin is to be stripped of the judicial robes he has worn 19 years.

Previous to completion of testimony against the $25,000-a-year jurist, Assistant Attorney General John Harlan Amen sought to show Martin accepted a lesser criminal plea from the brother of an "intimate" friend after another judge declined to hear the action because the defendant was a political foe.

Chief Defense Counsel Martin W. Littleton said he would complete the defense by nightfall, permitting summations to begin when the Senate reconvenes next Tuesday after the week-end recess.

Amen drew from Samuel Goldstein, an assistant district attorney in Kings county, an assertion Martin allowed over his objections a guilty plea to petit larceny from Irving Friedman, indicted for grand larceny in 1936.

Jean M. Trusiewicz, 72, who had operated a violin repair shop 40 years, died intestate. Ben H. Brown, public administrator, placed his collection of musical instruments in a warehouse under the listing, "fiddles."

Then Brown discovered a letter disclosing Trusiewicz had been negotiating with Mrs. Margaret "Annenbaum" of Pittsburgh, Pa., for sale of one of the violins for $18,000.

Henry Stockbridge, authority on violins, said it was made by Joseph Guarnerius in Italy in 1736, with a possible value of $40,000.

Another "fiddle" turned out to be an 1873 Pressenda worth $2,500. Other finely carved instruments were inlaid with silver and rare woods.

Now Brown is seeking to communicate with Trusiewicz's Polish sisters, Katerzyna and Kasmira Helena Trusiewicz.

Held for Burglary Of DeCicco Place

Albert Pross, 54, of 104 Second avenue, waived examination this morning when arraigned before Judge Matthew V. Cahill in police court and was held to await the action of the grand jury on a charge of burglary in the third degree.

Pross was picked up this morning by the police following an investigation of a burglary at the restaurant of James DeCicco at 11 High street, where cash and intoxicants valued at $35 were stolen Wednesday.

At police headquarters Pross was closely questioned by Lieutenant James V. Simpson, and later the lieutenant arraigned him in police court.

According to the police a cigar box containing 300 pennies was recovered, also a number of bottles of intoxicants. The police say that some of the bottles were found in Pross's garage and two bottles were found in his car at the time he was picked up.

Judge Cahill informed Pross that bail would be fixed by the county judge.

Wichita, Kas., Nov. 9 (AP)—An elephant bit Van C. Thomas, "Big Mona" went smoothly through her routine at the Shrine circus until she came to the coin trick. Trainor Thomas dropped a coin.

The pachyderm picked it up in her mouth. Thomas reached in to retrieve it. Big Mona clamped her jaws shut on the finger. Thomas, given emergency hospital treatment, remarked, "It was just a mistake in timing."

The gifts came as an unexpected surprise to the mayor and alderman-at-large.

Violins May Bring 'Sweet Music' Soon

Los Angeles, Nov. 9 (AP)—Two aged women in Wilno, Poland, may inherit a considerable sum from their brother, who died here September 23, in what was believed modest circumstances.

Jean M. Trusiewicz, 72, who had operated a violin repair shop 40 years, died intestate. Ben H. Brown, public administrator, placed his collection of musical instruments in a warehouse under the listing, "fiddles."

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 2 pints a day.

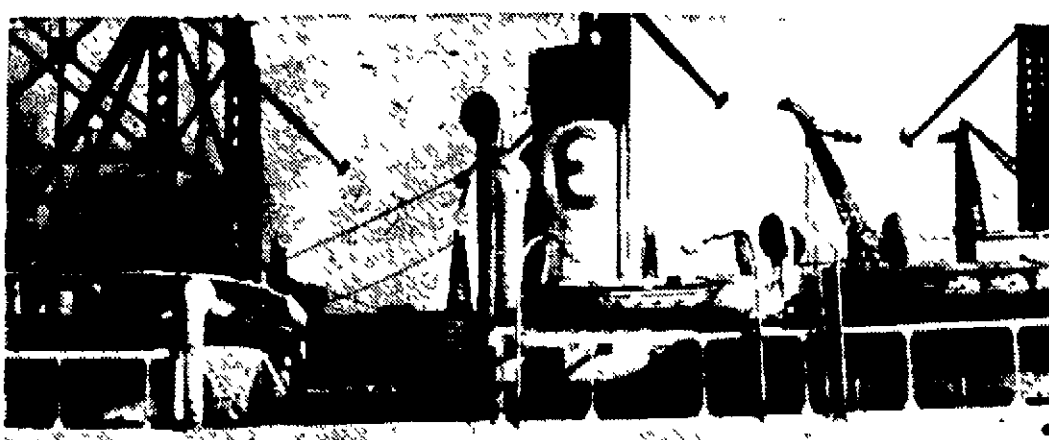

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste is mailed along in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headache and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Deane's Pills, and successfully by pulling out over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Deane's Pills.

Anna Kaskas Gives Recital of Songs Wednesday Evening

An enthusiastic audience welcomed Anna Kaskas, blonde young contralto of the Metropolitan Opera Association, Wednesday evening in the high school auditorium as she opened the 1939-40 concert season sponsored by the Co-operative Concert Association. Last night's concert was the first of a schedule which will include the National Symphony Orchestra, Lansing Hatfield and Bartlett and Robertson.

Miss Kaskas, whose program was well rounded with such popular selections as Brahms' "Lullaby," "In the Silence of the Night" by Rachmaninoff and "Night Not Go My Love" hit the high note of the evening as she sang "Amour, viens aider" from "Samson et Dalila" by Saint-Saens. In response to an endless demonstration of applause, many encores were given.

The young singer, who entered the Metropolitan Opera contest the spring before last and was awarded first place over all contestants, began her program with "If Thou Art Near" by Bach, "I Attempt From Love's Sickness" by Purcell and "Amor Comand" by Handel. She continued with the "O Don Fatale" aria from Verdi's "Don Carlos," two Richard Strauss numbers, "Allerseelen" and "Serenade" and included a few simple folk songs, ending the list with "The Lord's Prayer" by Mallotte.

Miss Kaskas' popularity was apparent from her first appearance on the stage. The warmth and length of the applause marked a favorable beginning for the winter music season in this city. In addition to factors such as the singer's personality, her voice is of generous volume. Her lower octaves are rich and deep and her upper octaves startlingly brilliant. Her interpretations were spirited and effective. Some of her best work of the evening was done in the Verdi aria, the Strauss "Serenade," "Hat dich die Liebe berührt" by Joseph Marx, "The Little China Figures" by Leoni, "Heffle Cuckoo Fair" by Shaw and "Hopak" by Moussorgsky.

Howard Kubik gave finished accompaniments and also appeared as soloist in a group of two Chopin numbers. Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb, president of the Kingston Co-operative Association group, announced a change in the next concert. Instead of appearing Sunday, December 17, the National Symphony Orchestra will appear in the municipal auditorium Wednesday, December 13.

UCTA Name Changed at Meeting

At a general meeting of the Ulster County Theatre Association Tuesday evening at the NYA recreational center, the association voted to change its name to Kingston Theatre Association. This change followed up the generous offer of Sidney Lutzin, recreational head here in the city, to allow the association the use of rooms at both the recreational center on Broadway and the Hobby House on Mill street for its general meetings, and for all courses which it plans to run this year. It was also voted to change the regular meeting night from the Thursday of each month to the second Monday.

With the added facility of a small stage at the recreational center the association will present one-act plays at each of its monthly meetings. William Zang will direct the first of this series which will be given the second Monday in December. These plays are to be presented with the express purpose of training all members of the association in acting, directing, scenery design, make-up and costume design. Members who have already shown talent along one of these lines will be asked to train in another. It is the hope of the organization to build up a membership of people who are interested in every phase of the theatre.

Next Monday night at 8 o'clock the first of the educational courses will be held at the Hobby House on Mill street. Reuben Herbert Plotkin will open his lectures on "Play Appreciation." These lectures are open to the public for the regular membership fee.

Get Youthfully Slim On Low-Calory Foods

Reduce Without Starving

Mrs. Pudgy and her little young daughter? Alas, no! Mrs. Pudgy and her older sister, Mrs. Slender. Follow them to lunch and you'll understand the difference in their figures.

After shopping, Mrs. Pudgy thinks she needs pork and beans (405 calories a serving) and lemon meringue pie (300 calories a medium slice).

But Mrs. Slender chooses a pepper stuffed with ham and bread crumbs (only 226 calories) and one-half cup coffee jelly with one teaspoon of whipped cream (110 calories).

Mrs. Slender, you see, knows her calories! And it was with just such low-calory foods she recently banished bulges which threatened to make her as matronly as Mrs. Pudgy.

Would you starve on her regime—look haggard? Not at all. Your properly planned low-calory diet contains plenty of protein foods—eggs, milk, meat, bright-eyed, firm-fleshed, and leaves you younger than ever.

Follow the satisfying low-calory menus in our 32-page booklet—and lose 2 pounds a week. Gives calory chart, three-day liquid diet to start reducing. Has weight building program too.

White Wedding Dress and Business Suit

Dear Mrs. Post: The wedding dress I would like most of all to wear has a slight train. But as my fiancé is wearing business clothes I wondered if it would be proper for me to have a slight train on my wedding dress and to wear a short tulle veil.

Answer: Of course you may wear a train, but the dress should be very "tailored" in style. The bridegroom should wear a plain dark tie, a white shirt and a white flower in his buttonhole, and preferably a dark blue suit. Obviously he should not wear tweeds!

Skirt Lengths of Mothers at Wedding

Dear Mrs. Post: Do the mothers' dresses at the wedding have to be similar in type, and does the bride's mother set the pace? At my son's wedding the bride's mother is wearing street length day clothes. It is to be an evening wedding and I would like to wear a dinner dress. This means a long skirt and no hat. But since I'm just the "other" mother, I don't know what to do.

Answer: If you are going to receive together, then it is important that you wear clothes that look well together. But if the bride's mother is to receive alone and you can stand elsewhere, it ought not to matter if your clothes are unlike. Naturally you should not wear a sleeveless, backless dress. But a modern dinner dress, which is cut like a daytime one and is rated as an evening dress only because of its material and length of skirt, would not be out of place unless you must receive with the bride's mother. In other words, if she stands at the door and the bride party stands at some distance from her (probably against the side wall or maybe against the opposite wall), then you could stand on beyond the bride party.

In fact, it would look very much better to lead up to you in your evening dress than the other way around. By this I mean that if the bride's mother were receiving in evening dress, and beyond her came the bride and her bridesmaids, and then beyond these you were to be wearing a street dress, it would not look as well as the way it is going to be.

Tip an Airplane Stewardess?

Dear Mrs. Post: Should one tip the airplane stewardess, and if so, how much?

Answer: No—absolutely not. Tip a Chambermaid in Hotel?

Dear Mrs. Post: I was particularly interested in the mention you made in a recent column on tipping the maid in a hotel. Since one seldom sees the maid who takes care of the room, how then is a tip left for her, and where?

Answer: You ring the bell or telephone and ask for the chambermaid and when she comes you give her your tip. Otherwise, of course, it can be left on the bureau although it is possible that some one else coming in to tidy the room may think it is for her, or for him.

School No. 4 Class Sees Power Plant At Rifton Today

This morning the pupils of the seventh grade regents geography class of School No. 4 made an excursion to the Central Hudson hydro-electric plant at Rifton. The group visited the dam, power house and the generators and showed much interest in the workings of the dam. They were conducted around the plant by Lewis Van DeMark who explained the theory and operation of the plant and answered the children's questions.

The pupils were taken to the plant in four cars driven by their teacher, Miss Agatha Fitzgerald. Principal Raymond H. Van Valkenburgh, Miss Helen Bradburn and Dominic Perry.

This is the second such excursion made by pupils of the school. Last year a different group from the same grade visited the upper plant. The excursions are considered a yearly feature of the geography class and are interesting and educational for the class.

Witnesses Give Testimony In Windingstad Death

Testimony of several witnesses was taken today before Coroner Jesse McHugh of Wallkill relative to the accident at Esopus on September 23 last when Edgar Windingstad of West Hurley and Thomas Murray of Poughkeepsie were killed.

Betty Ortiz, one of the occupants of the car which was being operated by Quay Sargent, was unable to attend the inquest because of injuries which she sustained at the time. It was stated that after returning to New Paltz Normal School she developed headaches and as a result had X-rays taken at St. Agnes' Hospital, White Plains, which showed that she suffered a fracture of the skull. She is now at her home.

Testimony was taken by Dr. John Olivet who made a post-mortem examination of Mr. Murray with Dr. J. S. Taylor. Death was caused by fracture of the skull, laceration of the brain and other injuries.

Doctors Testify
Testimony was given by Dr. J. S. Taylor and Dr. Chester Van Gaasbeek as to the examination of the bodies. Death of the instant was due to ruptured heart and skull fracture and various other serious injuries. Dr. Taylor testified there was no trace of alcohol on Windingstad. No examination was made in the case of Mr. Murray to determine whether there was alcohol present.

Examination of witnesses was by Assistant District Attorney James Connelly.
Arthur Brown, deputy sheriff, identified 10 photographs taken at the scene of the accident showing the Buick car in which the six young people were riding south. Photographs of the Hudson car of Mr. Windingstad, which was traveling north, were also shown. The crash took place on the easterly side of the highway near the Catholic Church at Esopus.

In the Buick was Quay Sargent, Charles Helmes, Thomas V. Murray, Jr., Betty Ortiz, Antoinette Follis and Claire I. Clark. In the Hudson was Mr. Windingstad alone.

Miss Powell, a student at New Paltz Normal School, testified that Quay Sargent was operating the car at the time of the crash. Sergeant E. J. Hulise of Highland gave the main testimony at the morning session. He said from his investigation it appeared that the Hudson was proceeding northerly on the right or east lane of concrete as it rounded the curve. Marks on the pavement indicated the car had remained on its right until just before the crash when it appeared the driver swung toward the left to avoid a crash. There were skid marks for 50 feet on the pavement indicating the brakes had been applied on the Hudson. The marks extended for a distance of some 22 feet above the spot where the cars were locked together after the crash. It appeared that the Hudson had been struck about 28 feet north of the point where the cars stopped and that the Hudson had been shoved back southerly some 28 feet after the actual contact.

Sergeant Hulise testified with the aid of miniature cars and a sketch of the roadway at the point of the accident.
He said the crash took place near the church and when he arrived he found the cars together as shown in the photographs. But two of the girls remained at the scene and they could not tell who had been driving or any facts of the crash. Until the present time he said he had been unable to get any statement from the occupants of the Buick.

Near Center of Road
When the cars finally came to a rest they were near the center line of the roadway with the Buick on the easterly side of the roadway, or its left as it had been traveling, and the Hudson was further in to the west as though the driver had swung to avoid the Buick car but had been struck on its right.
In explaining the location of the cars he said the Hudson had apparently swung to its left to avoid the crash and the Buick had struck the Hudson on its right as it came over to the left of the highway facing south. There were no marks of skidding or brake marks to the north which appeared to have been made by the Buick.

Strikes on Right Side
From the appearance of the Windingstad car it seemed, he said, that the Buick had struck it on the right side near the front door and shoved the Hudson backward in a southerly direction from which it had been coming, a distance of some 28 feet. The Buick was mostly in the east lane or north bound lane of traffic and was headed crosswise in a westerly direction.

Trooper James Benson testified he was at the scene but directed traffic. Trooper L. Baker of the B. C. I. who was working with Sergeant Hulise at the time, said he had assisted in making measurements next day and had found the measurements the same as testified to by Sergeant Hulise.

Miss Powell of 30 Wilmington street, Amityville, said the party had started out from New Paltz and stopped at two places. They left Port Ewen about 11:10 o'clock and proceeded south with Quay Sargent at the wheel. She had heard no argument between Murray and Sargent as to who should drive. The speed she placed at 45 miles an hour and she first saw headlights come up toward the Buick as they rounded the curve above the scene of the crash.

The Buick car was on its right side of the street at the time, she said, seemed to pull to the left to avoid a crash when the Hudson came over to its left. The crash took place on the left of the road headed north. She recalled the Buick swaying but could recall no brake being applied by Sargent. She said he did not recall the Buick attempting to pass a truck at the curve. Most of the party had taken ginger ale when they stopped but Sargent had two or three rye whiskey highballs.

Miss Powell said she had just met Sargent that night and had been unable to tell the name of the driver as he was somewhat of a stranger to her and she could not recall his name.

Dr. Van Gaasbeek said that in examination of specimens taken from Sargent, driver of the car, it was found to contain 16-100 per cent alcohol and stated that 15-100 per cent was considered by the Automobile Association authorities as sufficient to make a person unsafe as a driver.

Red Cross Gives Courses for Home

To combat illness and disease the American Red Cross has instructed over one million women and older girls in simple nursing procedures and the fundamentals of home sanitation since 1914.

Last year 1,826 graduate nurses conducted 4,505 classes and qualified 61,296 family members to recognize sickness in its early stages, showed them how to fashion comfort aids from homemade equipment, and taught them how to give skilled care to invalids and the bed-ridden. These courses were given in 954 communities and throughout the nation.

Home hygiene and care of the sick as taught by the Red Cross today is a standard course in many junior schools and colleges, and instruction has been given Red Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, and numerous other groups. Each summer, university courses are held to qualify Red Cross nurses as home hygiene teachers.

In addition to the Red Cross program of family health education, Red Cross public health nurses in hundreds of communities make a million annual visits to the sick of rural areas and industrial centers, and help physicians examine children at schools and clinics. Enrolled in the Red Cross reserve nursing corps are 41,500 nurses who stand ready for disaster, epidemic, and other emergency service.

This home care of sick training is another of the services rendered by the American Red Cross, and is supported mainly by the results of the annual Roll Call, which begins November 11 and ends November 30. The local campaign under the chairmanship of Mrs. Frederic Holcomb, will endeavor to reach the highest enrollment possible, due to the demands on the facilities of the Red Cross from the war zones of Europe and the domestic difficulties of the past year.

If white rings disfigure your mahogany table top, don't despair. They're the penalty of carelessness with hot dishes, which cause moisture condensation in the lacquer or varnish finish. But they can usually be removed. Apply a little wood alcohol, cover with a cloth and then place a hot iron on the cloth. Use both heat and alcohol sparingly and rub down with wax.

The small alcove in older houses is often a decorative problem spot. One ingenious decorator solved the problem by giving it a different wallpaper treatment and furnishing it with an 18th Century mahogany desk, chair and bookcase. The arch made the alcove a pleasing picture form the living room and it gave comparative peace, if not isolation, to the family book lover.

Kingston Drops 1st Game to Philly Hebrews by 44-29 Score

Celtics Fail to Click Until Last Period in Opener

Sphas Start Early and Run Up Big Lead—Berenenson Leads Rally for Sedranites

It's only the beginning but American Basketball League fans who saw the first game of the loop at the municipal auditorium last night pick the Philadelphia Hebrews as the team to beat for the pennant.

Putting on the pressure in the first period, the Sphas administered a 44-29 drubbing to last season's first place prize club, Kate Smith's Celtics, representing Kingston.

Manager Eddie Gottlieb used the old No. 1 Dan Gable, who kept fresh men in the fray all the time, and substitutions were made freely, especially in the last period when Kingston tried to rally.

Pete Berenson with four fields led the belated drive of the Celtics but the Shamrocks were too far under to catch up with the Hebrews who led 31-12 at the beginning of the third period.

Last night's victory was the second in the American League for the Sphas. They trimmed the Wilkes-Barre Barons, 50-34, last Saturday. And, last night while they were chalking up No. 2, the Jersey Reds put one over on the Troy Club 28-26.

A score by Corky Stanton, ex-Kingston luminary, would have tied the score, but was not allowed because it was ruled that the Trojan was out of bounds when he made the toss.

In last night's game, it took one scorekeeper alone to keep track of the Spha substitutions. Eddie Gottlieb's boys were in and out so often that when a couple of the switches were made, it was necessary for the players to "double check" on their opponents.

The substitutions kept down individual high scores, but all of the Hebrews except Cy Kaselman and Red Wolfe broke in to the columns for tallies. Phil Rabin and Red Rosan with nine apiece led the Philly attack, and Pete Berenson with 10 and Chick Reiser with nine showed the way for the Celtics.

Sphas Start Early
During the first period, Philadelphia bore down on the Celtics and outscored them 11-6. Inky Lautman, Phil Rabin and Mickey Bloom, the new center, showed the way with three apiece. Bernie Fliegel and Reiser made six between them for the Kingston club.

In the second period, there was no holding the Sphas. They scored from all angles, and were exceptionally accurate on their long range shots to pile up 20 points against a meagre six for the Sedranites.

Max Goldman, relieving Bloom at center, accounted for a trio of ducuses, and Rabin, Gotthofer and Rosan each contributed two from the field. Reiser pumped in two, a hook shot and pushup for the Celtics.

Pete Berenson went to town for the Sedran combination in the closing frame, scoring eight of his 10 points in this canto on two close shots and a couple of long ones. The home club came through with 17 all told as Fliegel, Reiser and Kaplan accounted for the rest of the points. Rosan, Rosenberg and Rabin were tops for the Sphas in collecting 13 points.

Saturday Kingston plays a return with the Hebrews, meeting them in Broadwood Hotel auditorium, Philadelphia. The game will be broadcast over WCAU. Next week on Tuesday, November 14, the Jewels will come to the municipal auditorium.

White Eagles Start Season on Friday

Friday night the White Eagles begin their basketball season in their Delaware avenue auditorium, playing the Arlingtons of Poughkeepsie.

Starting time of the game is 8:30 and the Rev. Stanislaus Malinowski, pastor of Immaculate Conception Church, will throw up the first ball.

The Eagles, who won 18 out of 24 games last season, hope to get started on the glory road tomorrow, said Manager Francis Wojciechowski, who has dressed his cagers in red and white uniforms, the Polish national colors.

There will be a preliminary game at 7:30 o'clock between Mary's Beauticians and High Falls.

Do you want ALL-WINTER RADIATOR PROTECTION FOR ONLY $1.50?

There's the way many car owners do it every year! They put in a couple of quarts of Du Pont "Zerone" early in the season for protection against rusting and sudden cold snaps.

When it gets really cold, they add enough "Zerone" for lower temperatures. A total of six quarts, put in as needed, can protect a car with an average size cooling system (15 quarts) for the entire winter. And six quarts of "Zerone" cost only $1.50!

You may need a little more or less, depending on the condition and capacity of your car radiator and the severity of winter in your neighborhood. But the efficiency of "Zerone" will save you real money.

"Zerone" prevents rust and corrosion, gives better dissipation of engine heat, avoids power losses. And remember, it's only $1.50 a gallon, 25¢ a quart.

A Star's A Star in Pro Ranks With or Without College Fame

AP Feature Service

It doesn't take All-America ranking to become a top-notch professional football star the first year up. Year after year unheralded gridders, grabbed off by hawk-eyed talent scouts, come into the big time paid ranks and promptly set the loudly acclaimed heroes back on their heels. A player's alma mater—be it Plisgah Prep or Mighty Miltok—matters little to pro club owners. What they want is ability. These "freshmen" are among the unsung college gridders making good in the National League this year:

JOE RATKA, 205-pound Brooklyn Dodger center, has been tagged by his coach, Patsy Clark, as the man who will succeed Mel Hein as all-league center. Ratka, who works in coal mines in the off-season, played his college football at little St. Vincent's in Pennsylvania.

EDDIE MILLER, 165-pounder who succeeds in shining in the midst of a bright array of New York Giant backs, is an old New Mexico Aggie star. He's a whirlwind runner, blasts his punts out 60 yards, and can pass with the best of them.

JOHN WIETHE came up to the powerful Detroit Lions from Cincinnati's Xavier University. With out a word of advance publicity and playing down in the line where it's tough to be noticed, he won early praise from critics for his work at tackle.

Fordham's Jim Crowley Says Tulane-Alabama a Real Match

New Orleans, La., Nov. 9 (AP)—Coach Jim Crowley of Fordham, about a month ago, called the turn on the Tulane-Alabama clash here Saturday when the Green Wave will endeavor before an anticipated 55,000 crowd to end talk that Tennessee is supreme in the south and in the southeastern conference.

"Alabama's got a better defense, Tulane a better offense, and it should be a whale of a game," Crowley said. None should know better, for his Rams were defeated 7-6 by Alabama and 7-0 by Tulane.

With an off day last Saturday, Coach Lowell (Red) Dawson has for the first time this season been able to point his Greenies for a victory local enthusiasts could use to support their theory that mighty Tennessee could be taken if the teams met. They won't meet, however, unless it be in the Sugar Bowl on New Year's Day.

After a series of "breather" games, Tennessee beat Alabama 21 to 0, Tulane, in its first chance for a comparison with Tennessee, would need to do approximately as well to sustain the claim of many here that the Volunteers never would crack the Tulane Powerhouse.

Furthermore a Tulane victory could set up a claim as co-champions of the Southeastern Conference, assuming Tulane later beats Louisiana State University, and Tennessee isn't tripped up by Kentucky.

Neither are defeated or tied in conference, Tennessee has won three, Tulane two. Both have three games to go. Championships are not officially awarded. It is contended by scribes here that Tulane with five victories would have as good or better claim as Tennessee because of its much stiffer schedule.

For Tulane opened against Clemson, and has not had a "breather" game. Three of the opponents to date have been beaten only by Tulane. The 14-14 tie with North Carolina is the only debit mark against the Wave.

Chicago Bookies Continue Despite Loss of Wires

Chicago, Nov. 9 (AP)—As long as the horses are running the bookmakers will book them.

That appeared to be the general attitude today of nearly a thousand Chicago bookmakers as they faced loss of direct wire service for the first time in 40 years. The Illinois Bell Telephone Company had arranged to cut off their service at noon in compliance with a request from United States District Attorney William J. Campbell, who is prosecuting M. L. Annenberg, owner of the Nation Wide News Service, for alleged income tax evasion.

Nationwide serves the entire country with horse racing information.

Chicago reputedly is the biggest betting center in the country, with an estimated $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 being wagered on the "gees" daily.

The bookmakers plan to meet the new situation by taking wagers as usual, but will accept no bets later than two or three minutes before the scheduled post time of the race. Before they pay off, however, they will wait for the official "off-time" of the race, checking it with the time the wagers were made so as to reduce the chances of any better "cheating" on them.

Nationwide News will continue to disseminate its racing information as usual by telephone but it will not be relayed by private telephone hookup to all betting establishments simultaneously. The handbook operators plan to station runners at the Nationwide headquarters as it comes in by telephone and then telephone it to the books betting center in the country, with an estimated $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 being wagered on the "gees" daily.

Lightweight Helium Has Little Commercial Value

Practical commercial utility of the "lightweight" helium discovered in the air by University of California scientists remains extremely doubtful, the scientists have reported.

Dr. Luis W. Alvarez, assistant professor of physics, who, with Robert Cornog, graduate student from Denver, detected submicroscopic quantities of the lightweight helium in ordinary air, reported the discovery is considered important to the science of physics, but its possible use in commercial form, such as in lighter than air craft, is very much in doubt.

Reason why the commercial utility of lightweight helium is extremely doubtful is that no method has yet been devised to extract any type of helium from the air in usable commercial quantities.

The scientists made their discovery with the aid of the university's 225-ton atom smashing cyclotron.

The United States has a monopoly on heavy helium which has a lifting power 92.3 per cent that of hydrogen, the lightest known gas.

Wild and Tame Doe
A doe deer raised by the A. H. Kellogg family on their ranch near Yakima, Wash., is so tame it enters the Kellogg house. The deer, named Babe, was found three years ago by Kellogg's children when it was a fawn. It apparently had been abandoned by its mother and was near starvation. The children took it home and nursed it with cow milk until it became strong again. When it became older the Kelloggs turned it loose in the hills. But although it ranges miles into the timber, the deer usually appears at the ranch house in the evening at milking time, seeking some fresh milk.

that the amount wagered daily in Chicago probably would be cut in half. The bookies will stand to lose a quick turnover of large sums, usually placed when crowds gather to bet race after race throughout the afternoon.

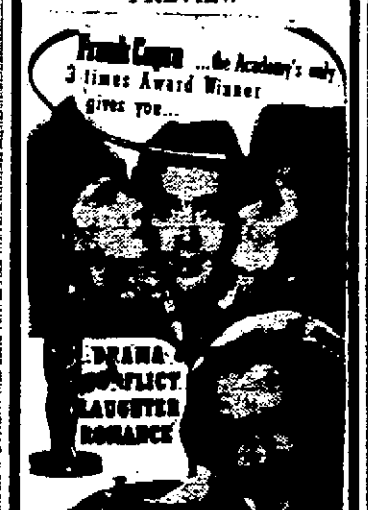

Some observers believe that owners of small cigar stores and taverns will accept wagers and forward them to larger establishments, receiving money for the pay offs the following day.

Stock Market Was Weaker Wednesday

The market went lower yesterday, continuing Monday's course, with volume at 1,070,000 shares vs. 70,000 Monday. Industrials dropped 1.11 points, making a loss of over two points in the last two sessions and bringing the Dow Jones average down to 150.25, low point since September. Railroads fell 0.13 point, to 33.44 and utilities were off .10, to 25.95. Although averages were off no stock made new low while ten issues registered new highs for the year. In the commodity markets yesterday foodstuffs generally moved higher, while rubber, silk and wool were easier. Wheat was up half a cent a bushel at Chicago; cotton closed three to 14 points higher. Previous predictions that railroad traffic will remain at better than usual levels for the balance of the year were strengthened by estimates that loadings for the week ended November 4 were around 304,000 cars. This is a drop of some 30,000 cars from the previous week, but is a less than seasonal decline. In the like 1938 week total was 673,000 cars. Electric output was off slightly for the week, but the gain over the 1938 period was 14.9 per cent, better showing than was made in the previous week.

ICC has granted permission to nine eastern railroads to reduce their rates to meet lower charges of freight forwarding companies on traffic between any points on their lines. Action indicates adoption of a competitive rather than cooperative attitude toward such agencies and may mean the setting up of railroad service to handle less-than-carload shipments.

Pennsylvania R. R., which had estimated October net of over $8,200,000, declared a dividend of $1, which is twice the amount paid in 1938; indicates semi-annual payments next year if earnings continue satisfactory.

Among corporations declaring higher dividends yesterday were Timken Roller Bearing, U. S. Gypsum and Standard Oil of Ohio. Timken declared $1.50, making a total for this year of $2.50 vs. $1 paid in 1938. U. S. Gypsum pays regular of 50 cents and an extra of $1.50. Standard Oil of Ohio, regular of 25 cents and special of 50 cents. Pittsburgh Plate Glass pays $1.75; made three previous payments of 75 cents each. Fenner Road Corp. declared dividend of 10 cents; last payment 25 cents in December, 1937.

Directors of Eastman Kodak yesterday declared a wage dividend to employees of around $2,440,000, payable March 25 next. This is the 28th such distribution since 1912 and will bring total payment to $45,750,000. Company also declared regular quarterly dividends of $1.50 each on common and preferred stock. Makes $6 paid on common this year.

Briggs Manufacturing Co. showed profit of $30,475 for quarter ended September 30, vs. loss in the same quarter last year of $894,078.

Nazis Boost Bomb Reward; British And Jews Blamed

the Nazi party's foreign political division; Ritter Von Epp, governor of Bavaria; Wilhelm Schaub, Hitler's personal adjutant; and Julius Streicher, governor of Franconia. Hitler himself was safe aboard a special armored train at the time, heading toward Berlin after an address which was regarded generally as preparation for his people to face a prolonged conflict.

He returned to his Berlin chancellery about 4 a. m. (10 p. m. E. S. T. Wednesday) aboard his special train, which left Munich 20 minutes after he finished speaking.

Munich authorities, aided by one of the highest concentrations of police and investigators in the city's history, searched for clues but strictest secrecy was maintained and nothing was said about arrests.

Witnesses of the explosion said it was so violent that a hand grenade or amateurish infernal machine could not have caused it.

No Explanation The beer hall had been one of the most strictly watched spots in Munich for days and no explanation was offered how a foreigner or conspirator could have entered.

The train that brought the fuhrer here after the impromptu annual address in which he declared that Germany would "speak the language which England understands," was said to be one of the safest trains ever built.

Technical experts said its padded coaches and steel-shuttered windows would withstand the force of a mine exploded on the tracks. "We thank Providence for sparing the fuhrer," an early morning radio commentator broadcast.

"But he is moved by fanatic hate for the perpetrators of this outrage. Enemies will learn what it means to lay hands on Adolf Hitler."

Officials charged with the security of the fuhrer's person had the scare of their lives and the energy with which they plunged into the hunt was shown by the reward offered for information—500,000 marks (about $200,000).

Foreign Sources Blamed

A semi-official statement said "clues indicate the plot originated abroad" and it was expected, therefore, that Germany's borders would be watched carefully for evidence of intrigue.

The clues were not disclosed. But there were signs that the Gestapo, the Nazi secret police, and the Schutzstaffel, Hitler's black-shirted elite guard, were launching a spy hunt and a drive to wipe out enemies of the Nazi regime in politics and the war.

Official German sources unqualifiedly blamed the explosion on British agents and declared it was provoked by Jews.

There is no doubt that the English secret service has a hand in this affair," declared the newspaper Zwölf Uhr Blatt, first German newspaper to report the explosion.

It promised an investigation "with German thoroughness" and destruction of Germany's enemies. "The British secret service and Jews" were responsible, declared Deutsche Dienst, the commentary service of DNB, official German news agency.

It charged that an attempt was made on Hitler's life "because it was thought that through the act Germany would be struck in the heart."

"Who are these murderers?" it asked. "We do not yet know the individuals or how they prepared the need. But one thing we know—gold givers, capable of such detestable notions, are agents of the secret service."

Whispers of Jews "And behind them stand war agitators into whose ears Jews are whispering."

"If anything could have strengthened our will for victory or made us more faithful to the fuhrer, it is this attempt to murder Adolf Hitler."

"But England will learn to know us better. We will not be satisfied with half measures—that is the oath given at the Bier of these dead."

"The German nation enters truly well prepared into the fight which now starts. If, up to now, we have shown consideration toward state enemies it should be clear that beginning today they will be treated so they are unable to threaten the life and security of National Socialists (Nazis) any more."

"In the future we will deal differently with those who become criminals for English gold. Let England be informed we are keeping an eye on the enemy. We know after this action that everything is at stake."

Zwölf Uhr Blatt commented that when "Englishmen are faced by men refusing to submit to their criminal aims or bloodthirsty policy of suppression, assassinations have been staged or mysterious accidents have happened."

Hitler Reported Unharmed It was emphasized repeatedly here that Hitler was unharmed and that he was aboard his Berlin-bound train before the blast wrecked the famous beer hall.

In the spacious room at the time of the explosion were mostly obscure Nazi oldtimers who followed Hitler in the unsuccessful 1923 uprising. Many of them were said to have been superiors on German highway building projects.

They had remained after cheering the fuhrer on his way and still were discussing his address with its declaration that Germany was prepared to fight, and win, a five-year war.

The blast came from above, indicating the possibility either that explosives had been hidden in the ceiling or smuggled to a room above.

Either there was a miscalculation of some minutes in preparing a timing device or in touching off the explosives or Hitler's decision to leave ahead of schedule caught the plotters unaware.

He probably owed his escape, it was said, to his abrupt departure because of the press of state business instead of remaining to chat with the veterans as has been his custom.

The interior of the hall was wrecked, tables were strewn about and the Nazi comrades thrown to the floor under the piles of wreckage.

"Terrific Charge" An administrator of the Fuergerbau hall said it was a "terrific charge" and the proprietor added that it came "without any preliminary sound or other warning," causing the ceiling to fall "with a terrific roar."

"There were screams," he said, "and the air was filled with dust and an acrid smell. Bodies lay under the debris and there was a great struggle as the injured tried to get away and the uninjured tried to find a way out."

Munich was thrown into turmoil and cut off from telephone communication with the rest of the country for several hours, until the situation was fairly well in hand.

Police swiftly blocked off the area surrounding the hall, and the city, which has been blacked out each night since the war, suddenly was bright again as search lights were turned on to aid the police and guide ambulances.

Most of the inhabitants were puzzled by the illumination and some began a short-lived celebration in the belief a peace effort had begun.

But Hitler had declared that Britain wanted no peace and that Germany was "prepared never to capitulate."

The Berlin press reflected his determination. "Through battle to victory," said the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung.

"War appeal to entire nation" was the Lokal Anzeiger's headline.

Although the use of canned milk has been increasing steadily, the ratio of canned milk to fresh milk in the American diet is probably smaller than is generally supposed. Milk consumed both fresh and canned in 1938 was about 42.7 gallons a person, of which 3.7 gallons, or a little less than nine per cent, was canned milk. In 1921, canned milk made up only about five per cent of the total.

Late this afternoon, William T. Roedel, chairman of the American Legion Victory Ball entertainment committee, announced that John B. Gambling, ill of bronchial pneumonia, would not be here for the big social event tomorrow night. Roedel said that he had been notified by the WOR entertainment bureau that Gambling is off the air mornings, and his "Musical Clock" program is in charge of another radio artist. "An announcement pertaining to Mr. Gambling's illness and the Legion ball will be made tomorrow over WOR in the morning between 7:15 and 8 o'clock," said the chairman of the ball. Negotiations were being carried out this afternoon to procure Lazy Dan, well known radio character, to replace Gambling. Lazy Dan is on WABO every afternoon at 3:20 o'clock.

Program Complete

All arrangements have been completed for the American Legion Victory Ball tomorrow night at the municipal auditorium where one of the most elaborate entertainment programs ever offered will feature the big social event commemorating the signing of the armistice for the World War.

Medical Journal Says Dutchess Boy 8 Years in 'Lung'

Chicago, Nov. 9 (AP)—The journal of the American Medical Association related today the astonishing story of a young man who for eight years has fought infantile paralysis with the aid of a mechanical respirator.

The case history by Dr. Scott Lord Smith of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., said use of a respirator for that long is believed to be a record. It did not give the name of the 21 year old patient.

He was stricken during the poliomyelitis epidemic of 1931 and ever since has required a respirator for breathing, at least during sleep—a span that far exceeds that of the famed "boiler kid," Fred B. Smithe, Jr., 29, of Chicago, who has traveled far and wide and been married while practically living in a respirator since April 1, 1936.

Dr. Smith said his patient has had colds, hay fever, eczema, kidney stones, pneumonia and eye trouble, in addition to "polio" which paralyzed virtually all his respiratory muscles.

The young victim was cheerful, took rides in a station wagon and went to movies the first few years, since he then was able to remain out of the respirator for as much as nine hours, Dr. Smith said.

Later he gave up such trips, having lost a bit of confidence, but in 1938 when glasses eased the eye strain he had "an uplift in morale," the doctor related, and he still plays chess, checkers and card games.

Second Meeting of West Shore Group

A second meeting of the association being organized to promote the travel and business interests of the west shore of the Hudson river will be held in Mitchell Inn in Middletown on Tuesday, November 21, at 1 o'clock.

It is likely that a name will be definitely decided on for the new organization, and officers elected. The first meeting was held some weeks ago in Kingston on call of Mayor C. J. Heiselein. The meeting was held in the Stuyvesant Hotel with Hamilton Laurie as host. At that time Charles Evans, president of the Orange County Planning Board, was named temporary chairman, and Spencer T. Horton, secretary of the Orange County Chamber of Commerce, temporary secretary.

A call for the Middletown meeting is being sent to upward of 100 organizations and associations throughout the nine counties originally proclaiming an outstanding interest in the area.
